THE ANGELI RESUME

Mission Statement

My mission will always be to serve God and my family as a first priority. I value my position in the work force and view it as not only a means of financial support, but as a vehicle that will foster personal and professional growth and development.

I think it is important for a company, organization or team to stay focused on the “big picture” and need periodic reminders of where they are going, while never losing sight of the fact that it is a combination of the smaller parts and pieces that make up the whole.

I will make a commitment each day to utilize the many years of experience and areas of expertise I possess for the betterment of my work environment.

It is my desire to be a part of a safe, supportive environment that promotes self-discipline, motivation, and excellence in the work place.

Each day it will be my goal for my work performance to reflect my mission and belief statements.

THE ANGELI RESUME

Career Objective — Qualifications — Overview

Objective

To obtain a basketball coaching position that will utilize my experience and ability.

Qualifications

On-floor head coaching, scouting and individual skill development.

Career Overview

Professional head coach overseas (Doha, Qatar). Current 37 — 2 record; Won League Championship, Heir Apparent Cup, Emir Cup Championship and the coveted Asian Cup Championship as first-year Al Rayyan coach. First coach in Rayyan history to complete a sweep of all league and tournament championships in one season in Qatar.

Aided in developing the UCLA Bruins into a top 20 nationally ranked team each season and a 1998, 2000, 2001 and 2002 NCAA Sweet 16 appearance; Reached four NCAA Sweet 16's in six years at UCLA.

As recruiting management coordinator, assisted UCLA in recruiting nation's No. 1 class in 1998 and the No. 2 class in 2001.

Worked nine years as an assistant at the Division 1 level for Stan Albeck (Bradley), Jim Larranaga (Bowling Green State), and Steve Lavin (UCLA), who have combined for over 1,000 wins.

As an assistant coach with Bowling Green State University, aided the Falcons in reaching back-to-back NIT postseason appearances for the first time at BGSU since the early '60s.

As head high school coach at Norway (MI) and Kingsford (MI) respectively, directed perennial losing programs to winning seasons, reaching the District Championship Game at Kingsford and winning the District Championship at Norway for the first time in 20 years.

THE ANGELI RESUME

What I Learned From John Wooden

Over the past seven years, through my relationship with UCLA, I have had the good fortune to spend quality time with legendary basketball coach John Wooden. Below is a list of some of the valuable coaching advice and life lessons I have gleaned from my time with Coach Wooden.

- Be truly interested in those under your supervision for more reasons than just their athletic ability.
- Make an effort to get along with all people, associates, fellow faculty, alumni, other athletes and coaches, etc.
- Never see color in a person.
- Command respect by your actions, not by demanding it.
- Study the game. Always try to take advantage of every opportunity to increase your knowledge of the sport.
- Be able to analyze the situations during a game and make the adjustments — and those adjustments have to be taught in advance. If you haven't taught it, don't expect them to execute it with any degree of efficiency.
- Be a good teacher who pays attention to details.
- Have character. Don't be a character.
- Have a level personality. Too many peaks and valleys with a fiery temper.
- Don't be an actor on the sideline. People should come to see your team play, not to see you coach. The team should provide the entertainment.
- Don't overcoach. Basketball is a simple game. Make it simple for your players. Don't confuse them with overcoaching.
- Learn each year. As you get older, be able to relate to a younger generation.
- The ideal coach must be flexible and change his system to suit the players he has rather than make them play a style they are not capable of playing.
- Be hard working, organized, enthusiastic, loyal and confident.
- Have honesty, integrity, patience and faith.
- Above all, be a good person.

Why Hire Jamie Angeli?

Drive

- No one will bring more commitment and passion to their job.
- I am a goal-oriented person who has a strong desire to get things done.
- My commitment, dedication and enthusiasm is only rivaled by my loyalty for the organization that has employed me.

Motivation

- I have enthusiasm and a willingness to ask questions and learn on the job.
- I enjoy accepting added challenges and will make every effort to do that little bit extra on every job.

Communication

- I possess the knowledge and ability to talk and write effectively to people at all levels within any company or organization.
- I have excellent video and computer skills that match my ability to think creatively and quickly on my feet.

Chemistry

- I am a team player.
- I am someone who does not get rattled.
- I am confident without self-importance.
- I get along with others.
- You are only as strong as your weakest link. A lifetime in teaching, coaching and athletics have taught me the value of goals, teamwork, unselfishness and overall team pride.

Confidence

- I understand the relationship between preparation, hard work and success.
- I am neither intimidated by nor overly familiar with any level of employee.

Integrity

- I take responsibility for my actions, both good and bad.
- I try to make decisions based on the best interests of my employer and never on a whim or personal preference.
- I grew up in a family-owned grocery store business. Learned early on from my parents the meaning of the words hard work, customer satisfaction, manners, honesty and respect.
